OBJECT DESCRIPTION

A painting by Andreas Kodros from 1995. There are four objects on a yellow colored table that goes half way up the painting and the top half is a white wall. The bowl is in the front and to the left, it is green on the outside and pink/red on the inside. On the outside towards the bottom of the bowl is a thick dark green line and above that there is a smaller dark green line and another above that. Inside the bowl there is a thick dark red line towards the top with a thinner line underneath it. To the right of the bowl is a purple bottle that has two dark purple lines by the neck of the bottle. It is a shorter and wider bottle than the one behind and to the left of it. That bottle is taller and is a yellow color with a white square and rectangle by the neck to make it have a shine. On the other side of the puple bottle is a blue container used for coffee. It is tall like the yellow bottle but it has a cap on it and a handle off to the side. It also has a white rectangle on it to show a shine.
