OBJECT DESCRIPTION

Rectangular, wood printing block with image of a man. The portrait is a close-up of his face ending just at his shirt collar. His face is turned so that it is in profile but turned slightly towards the viewer. The picture is drawn with thin lines to create the details of hair and face. There is a piece of soft paper attached to the back.

ORIGIN

Donated by John Damianos. The printing block was used in a linotype printing machine. Linotype presses allowed for the casting of entire lines to be printed at a time. Linotype printing was eventually succeeded by lithograph printing and computer typesetting during the 1960's and 1970's. This printing block was used by the Chicago-based, Greek Art Printing Company that was owned and operated by Aristotle Damianos. The Greek Art Printing Company was responsible for the printing of a wide range of materials, including wedding invitations, invoices, flyers, programs, letterhead, etc., for Greek businesses, organizations, institutions, and individuals in the Chicago area, and elsewhere.
