

OBJECT ID	1994.94.1
OBJECT NAME	Statue, Religious
OBJECT COLLECTION	Mary Semeges Collection (is part of)
MATERIAL	Plaster
OBJECT ENTITIES	Semeges, Mary (collected by) Semeges, Mary (owned by) Athena, (is related to) Semeges, Mary (is related to)
ACCESS POINTS	helmet kuhati Spear statue

OBJECT DESCRIPTION

Plaster statue of Greek goddess Athena. She is wearing a war helmet and a blue and white toga. Her right hand looks as if it were once holding a spear, but the spear is no longer connected to the statue. A hole in the base of the statue further suggests this. Her left arm has fallen off, leaving a stump and a mark on her stomach where her hand was probably glued. She is standing on a white circular base. The bottom of the statue identifies that the statue was handmade by Kutahia in Athens.

ORIGIN

Kutahia is a small merchant in Athens that makes statues and pottery which reflect the tradition of Ancient Greece. Although their products are handmade, they are reproductions.

CITATION

Statue, Religious, Mary Semeges Collection, National Hellenic Museum, <https://collections.nationalhellenicmuseum.org/Detail/objects/>. Accessed 05/05/26.