OBJECT DESCRIPTION

Dress decoration made of white crystal, pearls, jet black beads. Decorative cluster with seven strands as long as 5". Dated 1907-8.

The top of the decoration is shaped like a crescent moon, facing downward. It is decorated mainly in crystal beading, with a few stray black beads. Moving downward, there are seven strands of beads, that consist of mainly crystal beads, then a row of pearls across the seven strands, then more crystal beading, then a row of black beads, finished off by more crystal beading. Underneath that are two horizontal bars of black beads, connected by 5 small strands of crystal beads. Below that middle portion, there are 7 strands of crystal beads, occasionally decorated with a row of black beads or pearls. The decoration is capped off by long, crystal beads.

ORIGIN

This dress decoration can be used if desired to cover coffee stains on the corresponding blue dress that it was donated with.
