OBJECT DESCRIPTION

Female doll with red hair and a painted face. She seems to be made out of a harder kind of plastic. She wears a blue headdress with a red stripe and white trimming. She wears a blue dress with the same color scheme as her headdress. Her bodice is white with an orange vest and yellow lacing and a bow. She also has a white apron with white trimming and a green horizontal stripe between two lines of pink. In her hands she holds a red tambourine and her nails are painted red. Underneath her dress, she wears pantaloons that have red ribbons tied in a bow. Her shoes are red and are secured to her feet with a small pin.

ORIGIN

Part of a collection of twelve dolls in traditional, regional costume. Accession number corresponds to the doll's place in the ordered list in the accession file.
