ORIGIN

Because the labels list popular sites in Italy this film reel may contain the documentation of a vacation rather than film for his cultural documentary. Rome, Pompei, and Capri are large tourist cities in Italy. Rome is home to some of the most spectacular Ancient Roman sites as well as a watershed for medieval and renaissance artwork. Pompei, having been preserved by Mt. Vesuvius, is an incredible historical site. Capri is an island off of Naples with stunning views and ruins from the Roman Empire. Villa Borghese, now the Galleria Borghese, is a 17th century villa and garden complex located just outside of Rome is home to the Borghese art collection.

Doctor John N Nicholson was a Greek immigrant doctor who practiced in the Chicago area for 50 years and was well known member of the Greek-American community. Nicholson created the movie Present Day Greece and Its Mediterranean Islands from 1946-1951. It is a three hour long documentary meant to educate Americans about Greece and the Greek-American identity in order to dispel negative stereotypes. Since these are of Italian places this film is most likely not related to his documentary.

Eastman film is named for the inventor and founder of Kodak. Kodak safety film was developed around 1910 and became popular because it was much less flammable than nitrate film and it would not deteriorate into a goo after a few decades.
