

GREEK LECTURES WILL BE GIVEN

In Connection With Government's Exhibit Now Being Held in Alumni Memorial Hall

PROF. JOHN G. WINTER TO BE FIRST SPEAKER; CROSS NEXT

A series of three lectures on Greek subjects, with possible additions to the list at a later date, has been announced in connection with the exhibition of the Greek government now being held in Alumni Memorial hall.

"Ionia" Cross' Subject

Prof. John G. Winter will give the first lecture of the series next Monday evening, the subject of his address to be reported later. Prof. H. S. Cross of the Fine Arts department will speak July 19 on "Ionia."

Prof. Aristides E. Phostides of the University of Athens and formerly professor at Harvard university, will give the third lecture of the series on "Modern Greek Legends and Folk Songs." He is responsible for the translation into English of the poems of Kostes Palamas, the leading poet of Greece at the present time.

Interest Sustained

Interest in the exhibit is sustained, and each afternoon there is a large number of visitors in the hall. A party of students from the State Normal school at Ypsilanti were here yesterday afternoon to be conducted through the exhibit.
