Object Description

Photocopy of typewritten letter penned in English, with black ink. It is written on unadorned, white paper. A transparent, faded image of another document typed in French is visible behind the page. The French document is turned 90 degrees so that the writing runs up and down behind the letter. What looks like a "crinkle" or folded crease on the French document creates some blurring/distortion and runs vertically down the middle of this object.
