

| | |
|---------------|---------------------------------------|
| OBJECT ID | 2003.16.1 |
| OBJECT NAME | Spatula |
| MATERIAL | Metal; Wood |
| RELATED ITEMS | Spatula, 2003.16.2 Fork, 2003.16.3 |
| ACCESS POINTS | Pastry Knife Spatula Wooden |

OBJECT DESCRIPTION

LONG METAL SPATULA PASTRY KNIFE On the wooden handle, there is an inscription that reads, "24910F Dexter".

ORIGIN

In 1884, Henry Harrington, a New England craftsman and inventor, and owner of the Harrington Cutlery Co., introduced the Dexter line of kitchen and table cutlery which swiftly gained prominence for its quality and dependability in America's homes and restaurants.

On May 1st, 1933, the Harrington Cutlery Company and the John Russell Cutlery Company merged and formed the company Dexter and Russell. Today Dexter-Russell still provides the finest quality cutlery products for a various uses in hotels, restaurants, and residential kitchens.

CITATION

Spatula, National Hellenic Museum, <https://collections.nationalhellenicmuseum.org/Detail/objects/>. Accessed 05/05/26.