OBJECT DESCRIPTION

Black and white drawing of Athens with gold-wood frame and off white matting. In the foreground, plants can be seen, with a few houses off to the left. The main city is in the center of the photograph. Greek ruins can be seen upon a plateau. To the left, there is a rather large building. The back of the frame reads, "Les Amis Du Livre, Livres Rares-Cartes Anciennes, Gravures-Voyages En Grece" followed by an address. Then, "This print is guaranteed to be over 122 years old" Below this, there is a stamp that reads, "Familienalbum. Triest, 1857."

ORIGIN

Photo is over 122 years old. Athens is the capital of Greece. Athens has been continually inhabited for at least 7000 years.
